FROM THE RABBI'S DESK

By Rabbi David Eligberg

Masquerade!

A gauze half conceals the tableau of guests at the opera ball. The guests (whom we cannot yet see clearly) are in fancy dress: a peacock, a lion, a dragon, Mephistopheles, a highwayman, a clown, knights and ladies. The gauze lifts fully to reveal the staircase of the opera house. The opera ball begins. Among the guests are four carrying strange percussion instruments: a monkey with cymbals, a toy soldier with a drum, a triangle, bells. Together they play weirdly throughout.

CHORUS

M a s q u e r a d e !
Paper faces on parade . . .

Masquerade!
Hide your face,
so the world will never find you!

M a s q u e r a d e !
Every face a different shade . . .

Masquerade!

Look around - there's another mask behind you!

Flash of mauve . . .
Splash of puce . . .
Fool and king . . .
Ghoul and goose . . .
Green and black . . .
Queen and priest . . .
Trace of rouge . . .
Face of beast . . .

Faces . . .
Take your turn,
take a ride
on the merry-go-round . . .

in an inhuman race . . .
Eye of gold . . .
Thigh of blue . . .
True is false . . .

Who is who . . .?
Curl of lip . . .
Swirl of gown . . .
Ace of hearts . . .
Face of clown . . .

Faces . . .
Drink it in, drink it up,
till you've drowned in the light . . .
in the sound . . .

RAOUL/CHRISTINE
But who can name the face . . .?

ALL

Masquerade!
Grinning yellows,
spinning reds . . .

Masquerade!
Take your fill - let the spectacle astound you!

Masquerade!
Burning glances,
turning heads . . .

Masquerade!
Stop and stare at the sea of smiles around you!

Masquerade!
Seething shadows breathing lies . . .

Masquerade!
You can fool any friend who ever knew you!

Masquerade!
Leering satyrs,
peering eyes . . .
Masquerade!
Run and hide - but a face will still pursue you!

RABBI'S DESK

This is the spectacular opening of Act II of Phantom of the Opera. Watching the scene unfold is both dazzling and overwhelming. The pageantry provides an atmosphere of excitement while the masks create an air of mystery, allowing the story to unfold. Both the wedding plans of the young protagonists and the plotting of the Phantom are hidden behind a veil of secrecy. Friend and foe swirl together in a dancing masquerade, content to see the happy façade and avoid the reality behind it. Twists and reversals abound. Resolution is possible only once all the characters are unmasked.

Purim, its story and celebration, mirrors, in many ways, the scene described above. Megillat Esther is filled with people pretending to be what they are not: from the king's "loyal" cooks who plot to poison him; to Haman's duplicity; as well as Esther's own hidden identity. For the story to have a happy ending, all of the characters must be unmasked, their true identities and nature revealed.

Mordechai's unmasking of the plotters against King Ahashverosh begins the process. Esther must reveal her identity as a Jew before she can plead for her life and that of her people. Haman's evil designs have to be laid bare along with his self-serving goals. Recognition of Mordechai's loyalty and wisdom, as well as his connection to Esther, completes the process. Once the truth is apparent, Ahashverosh is able to choose correctly. Salvation comes from the assertion of identity, not by its denial.

As we busy ourselves with preparations for Purim, wearing masks, hidden identities and the true self strikes me as a challenge. Purim encourages us to put on our costumes, to hide our real selves, and to become something else, if only for a short time. It is an opportunity to step outside of ourselves and then reclaim our true identities.

Some years ago, I visited a friend of mine who lived in New Orleans. This afforded me an opportunity to experience Mardi Gras first hand, including marching in one of the parades. It was a unique and memorable experience. One of the enduring lessons I learned that day was about identity and self. There I was, hidden behind a mask and disguised by my costume, an anonymous figure with no past, an unknown person to all around me in a city gone wild. Those of you expecting some sordid revelation at this point will be disappointed. Ultimately, despite the mask of anonymity and the disguise of costume, I did not do anything that I could not share with all of you. The façade did not allow me to change my true identity or behave outside of my essential character. This too is part of the enduring message of Purim - be true to your own self.

One of the mitzvot of Purim calls upon us to be festive to the point of not knowing the difference between Mordechai and Haman; to create new realities and identities for ourselves for a brief time. Ultimately, however, we are being told that Jewish survival demands that we assert our true selves; that we live consistently with the values of the Torah and as a reflection of the richness of our tradition. When we live this way we can be like Mordechai, an asset to the Jewish community and a blessing to all people.

With best wishes for a freilach and fun filled Purim,

Rabbi David M. Eligberg

THE SINGING RABBI

By Cantor Bruce Rockman

For the sake of my brothers and friends

For the sake of my sisters and friends

Please let me ask, please let me sing
Peace to you.

This is the house, the house of the Lord

I wish the best to you.

From his sweet heart and soul
Rabbi Shlomo Carlebach sang these words from Psalms.

Who was Rabbi Shlomo Carlebach? Alternately known as “The Dancing Rabbi,” “The Singing Rabbi,” or “The Hippie Rabbi,” Shlomo Carlebach has influenced a generation as a bridge-builder and ambassador of love and joy, his message of openness and inclusion spoke to Jews and non-Jews of all persuasions.

Shlomo Carlebach and his twin brother Elyyahu were born in Germany on 18 Tevet 5685 (January 14, 1925). Their father, Naftali was a scholar and was a leading Rabbi in Berlin and their mother Pessia, was known for her deeds of charity.

After the Nazis came to power in 1933, the family left Berlin and moved to Austria. For a time the family thrived in Austria, where Naftali was appointed chief rabbi of an important Jewish community. The twins had the advantage of wonderful teachers and rabbinic greatness was predicted for both boys.

As the Nazi influence grew, the family escaped Europe to the United States and took up residence in the Williamsberg district in New York.

Shlomo’s spiritual quest began very early in his life. With his close friends, he would spend hours among the trees and lakes absorbing melodies and philosophy.

In 1943, Shlomo Carlebach was among the young scholars chosen to help lay the foundation for a new Torah center, the Beth Medrash Govoha in Lakewood. Today, the graduate school of Rabbinics, since named for him, has 1000 students on its roll today.

Ultimately Rabbi Carlebach found that he needed to bring his gift to more people and was not satisfied to reach great personal goals, such as being the head of the Torah Center. The Lubavitcher Rebbe R. Menachem Mendel Schneerson z”l, influenced Carlebach to choose a different path, he persuaded Shlomo that self-sacrifice on the behalf of the Jewish people means total devotion, giving oneself body and soul to the cause. Thus began his career in Jewish outreach.

Carlebach was a radical in the 1950’s and 60’s. He sang with Bob Dylan and Joni Mitchell. Still appearing very traditional, but very in step with the times, his outreach to the Jewish community grew, but due to his radical approach, was unable to continue his formal association with the Lubavitcher movement. Thus began the Carlebach legend.

I hope that I have peaked your interest. Starting on Tuesday evening February 5, with my new adult education class, “The Soul of Shlomo Carlebach”, I will attempt to fill in some more of the blanks for you. We will learn more about this influential Rabbi’s life. In addition we will be able to sing and learn from his beautiful music, much of which has influenced, our synagogue experience. Also, will also have the opportunity to listen to and re-tell some of the Rabbi Carlebach’s inspiring and enchanted tales.

Worship the Lord in gladness, come before God with joyous song.

B’nai Tikvah is Wired

The three main computers in the Synagogue office, plus the Rabbi’s laptop, are now all connected to high speed internet service (not Comcast). The service is secured via a LinkSys firewall router, which insures that private documents and files on the respective machines remain so.

Now when you send a message to Rabbi@BnaiTikvah.org, Cantor@BnaiTikvah.org, Administrator@BnaiTikvah.org, or even (our latest and greatest assistant) Roz@BnaiTikvah.org, you can be assured they will actually receive it at B’nai Tikvah.

LIFE AND WORK OF LEON BIBEL

We are planning a program for the late spring to celebrate the life and work of Leon Bibel. There are many examples of Leon woodwork in the CBT building. Most of the woodwork we are most familiar with was done in the last 10-15 years of Leon's career. Earlier works include oils and lithographs from as far back as the WPA era. We plan to have an open house at Bibel family home and have tours of his galleries (converted chicken coops), where we can view several hundred pieces of Leon's work that cover religious, sports, nursery rhyme, holocaust and contemporary themes.

I am looking for some volunteers to help organize the program. We need to decide on a date; we would like to have refreshments available in a tent on the property; we need to arrange for people to direct parking and guides to describe the works in each of the 7 rooms of art; and we need to organize a way to run a raffle or give a door prize of one of Leon's smaller wood works that the family indicated they might make available. We would also like to arrange a preview for some the local Jewish community leaders so they can take an announcement of the day(s) celebration back to their constituents in order to expand the community involvement. Leon gave much to CBT and here's a chance to give some back.

There will also be opportunity to purchase some of the art, but that is not the objective of the celebration.

Anyone interested in helping with the program please contact Mark Roller at (732)297-7055 or mroller867@aol.com

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL REPORTS

By Ann Kanarek

One of the most meaningful discussions a family can share is about God. When children ask about God they are asking about their place in the world and they are looking for a meaning and purpose of life. They are not necessarily asking about a theological concept.

Our children want to achieve an understanding of God. A belief in God provides them with a sense of order to the world and a knowledge that it is a stable and friendly place. They want and need to feel a sense of security and reassurance in a world that is not always logical or hospitable.

By having open discussions and talking about God, we give our children an opportunity to feel sacred. Connecting to God is how we Jews bring a sense of holiness into our lives and into this world.

Some of Phyllis Edley's 2nd grade children were asked the question "How does God make me feel?" The students responded:

- ◆ Alyssa Benzilio: Happy!
- ◆ Justin Goldstein: Happy!
- ◆ Jonathan Jacobs: Good!
- ◆ Alyssa Marcou: Loved and kind!
- ◆ Jesse Runyon: Like dancing to music!
- ◆ Arielle Sherman: Happy and safe!

- ◆ Cara Sherman: Happy because God made me polite and God is great!
- ◆ Sarah Sheps: Happy because I am safe!
- ◆ Kyle Spivak: Happy and sad!
- ◆ Lauren Tabak: Happy!
- ◆ Brian Wistreich: Really good because God is always there for me!
- ◆ Ashley Woller: Happy because God protects us!
- ◆ Amanda Zimmerman: Happy and proud!

As educators, we want our children to value themselves. However, given the complexities and uncertainties in life, it may sometimes be difficult to nurture a child's self-worth. We try to anchor self-esteem with the knowledge that we are all created in God's image, B'tzelem Elohim. The belief that we are created in the image of God makes us as individuals feel valuable. For our teachers to see God's image in the faces of our students whose spiritual lives are entrusted to us is truly a blessing.

(The Let's Discover God series that we use in our primary curriculum was a resource for this article.)

FEBRUARY is food for the needy month. Our classes will fulfill the Talmudic Dictum of Tikkun Olam (repairing the world) and join together with B'nai Tikvah's Social Action Committee to help the needy of our community. We could use your help by bringing in food items that will help the poor and hungry in the area. Please check the flyer enclosed in this HAKOL for suggested food donations.

Nursery School News

by Fran Pearlson

Throughout the month of February our school has planned fabulous fun-filled events and learning adventures.

February...

February will focus on the importance of eating healthy foods, taking care of our bodies, and taking care of our teeth. Dr. Altman, father of Tatum in our N3AMI class, will visit with our children to discuss good dental health practices. We will celebrate President's Day by discussing Presidents George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and the important contributions they have made to our country.

Our Mad Science Dinosaur Dig Program is coming...

On Monday, February 11th and Tuesday, February 12th, Mad science is coming to our school to perform their preschool workshop program. This fun, exciting and educational science experience will enhance our nursery's dinosaur unit as this hands-on program takes them on a dinosaur dig! What a wonderful way to culminate our dinosaur unit.

The Festival of Purim...

The children will all have a fantastic time when they celebrate this joyous holiday with a Purim party. The children will have the opportunity to dress-up in costumes and parade around our school. They will learn Purim songs as well as the Purim story. They will enjoy a special snack of hamentaschen, which they will make in class. They will send shalach manot (gifts of food) baskets to their friends and family, too. As in years past, I look forward to our hallways being filled with the lingering and delicious smells of these freshly baked pastries!

And the Festivities Continue...

On Monday, February 25th, Elliot the Super will come to our school and perform his Purim magic show. His show will include puppetry, music and movement, songs, and balloons. The children will have an educationally exciting time!

The highlight will be our 4th annual nursery school Purim carnival on Friday, March 1st. The children will have lots of fun as they bounce and jump in Noah's Ark. From there they will have several booths or activity centers to enjoy. From face painting to spin art to pinning the grogger on Hamen to playing basketball in the Shushan Basketball Arena the children are sure to have a great time.

NURSERY SCHOOL REGISTRATION

Nursery school registration for the 2002-2003 school year has begun. All temple members will receive priority registration and a discounted fee. Please contact the nursery school office for our registration booklet and application.

We hope you will step into the kitchen with your child/children and enjoy making our Hamentaschen for Purim! Happy Purim!

BIDS WANTED

The Synagogue will be re-carpeting the Sanctuary. We are presently accepting bids from congregants and outside vendors. If interested, please contact Hadas by February 20th at 732-296-0696.

Mitzvah Project

For Religious School, the Dalet students have been assigned a Mitzvah Project that should benefit the world in some way. We, Amy Binder and Carly Weinreb, have chosen to collect stuffed animals and donate them to a local rescue squad and/or a family shelter.

We are asking you to donate new stuffed animals to these children to help spread some cheer in a situation that is often difficult and sad.

Please bring these stuffed animals to the box in front of the Religious school office by March 15, 2002. Thank you for helping us.

ABIGAIL ADAMS URGES MALE/FEMALE EQUALITY; PRESIDENT AGREES ON SUN., APRIL 14, 8 PM

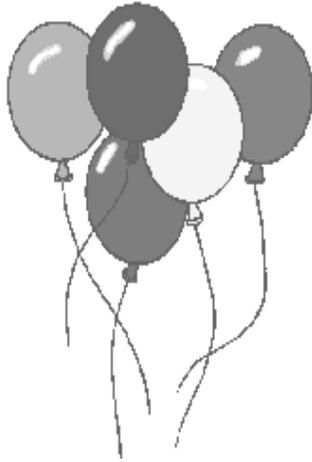

“You cannot be . . . an interactive spectator,” Abigail wrote to John at the Continental Congress. Then, she spent their married life either “like a nun in a cloister,” running their farm and raising their children, or following him to England, France, the Netherlands, and the presidency.

Join us on Sunday, April 14, 8:00 - 9:30 PM, in Congregation B’nai Tikvah’s sanctuary. Members and the community are welcome free of charge.

Abigail Smith Adams may be remembered best for urging John, in 1776, to create their new country’s laws so women would be treated with dignity and not as “vassals of your sex.” In fact, she was his “dearest friend,” confidante, and advisor from their courtship in 1759 until her death in 1818.

This dramatic reading will be our third annual “Presidents and Their First Ladies” program. The Adames will be portrayed by the wife-and-husband acting team of Sue and Bill Wills. We loved them as Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt and as Bess and Harry Truman and will, also, as Abigail and John Adams.

Come Celebrate With Us

We need lots of help to make this fundraising event a big success!

We are looking for goods and services donors for our silent auction. These items could include sports memorabilia, theatre and/or sporting event tickets, gift certificates, electronic appliances, time at a vacation home, etc.

At a time when we have become so aware of the importance of community, we are hoping that you can pitch in to make ours the best it can be.

Do You Chavurah?

Okay - maybe that's not the best use of the word grammatically but it's a headline, what do you expect? A Chavurah is simply a group of friends who get together for social and/or religious purposes. It's a great way to meet new people in our community with similar interests or strengthen ties with old friends. Each Chavurah is unique as is defined by its members.

With that in mind, a group of families is forming new Chavurah and would like you to join. They are looking for young couples (ages 25 - 45) with children. The goal for the new Chavurah is to meet once a month with content of meetings determined by the members. If you're interested, contact Lori Pettit (732) 274-9606. You can also receive additional information from Hadas at the synagogue office (732) 297-0696.

New Chavurahs can be formed by anyone with similar interests (e.g., single parents, seniors, empty-nesters, etc.). If you'd like more information on how to form your own Chavurah, contact Hadas at the synagogue.

Fifty Plus Group

The Fifty Plus group will meet on Tuesday, February 24, 2002 at 1:00 PM in the Social Hall of the Synagogue. The program will feature an R.N. from St. Peter's Hospital Senior Program speaking on topics of interest to seniors. Friends and prospective members are invited. Refreshments will be served.

RITUALLY SPEAKING

2/14/02 RITUAL MEETING

3 Adar

- ◆ All Ritual Committee members are urged to attend. We'll be discussing and approving the procedure the High Holiday Committee has documented concerning how honors are given out during the High Holidays. Our intention is to make these procedures available to the congregation so everyone knows how the process works.
- ◆ Also on the agenda will be committee reports from the Daily Minyon Committee, the Transliteration Committee, and the Care of Religious Items Committee.
- ◆ The meeting will begin after 7:30 minyon.

2/25/02 PURIM

14th Adar

Purim festivities begin at 6:30pm. Along with hearing the reading of the Megillah, plan on having a good time making noise, voting on costumes and being entertained by the B'nai Tikvah Players in a skit that'll truly be memorable.

2/26/02 PURIM

14th Adar

If you're the kind of person that is a little distracted when there's a lot of noise, come to our morning services @ 7:00am. You'll be able to hear the whole Megillah much clearer than the night before. We should be able to get you off to work by 8:15am or so.

HELP - HELP - HELP

We are in need of a congregant who knows their way around a wood shop. We would like this person to inspect our Ark, Kipah stands, Tallit rack, etc. to see what repairs, if any, need to be made. Please contact Marc D. Binder (732-274-2797 mdbcpcpa@aol.com).

It's never too early to start planning. If anyone is interested in putting together a Community Seeder, please call Marc D. Binder (732-274-2797 mdbcpcpa@aol.com). It may be too late for this year, however, if enough of us are interested, let's make sure it gets on the calendar for next year.

PRESIDENT'S PODIUM

By Mitch Frumkin

As President of B'nai Tikvah, it is my pleasure to inform the entire Congregation that one of our Congregants, Jesse Olitzky, the son of Sheryl and Rabbi Kerry, and brother of Avi has recently been elected as the President of USY International. When I first was informed of this news, I, of course was impressed by this accomplishment, but as I researched it further, I have now realized the full magnitude of this achievement.

The USY (United Synagogue Youth) recently celebrated its 50th anniversary at the annual Convention in Washington D.C. The conference was attended by 1,150 members who were from the 400 Chapters, which make up the 17 Regions throughout the United States and Canada. These teens represented the 16,000 members of USY. The USY is the High School affiliate of the United Synagogue of Conservative Judaism, the association of Conservative synagogues representing over two million Conservative Jews throughout North America. The United Synagogue was founded in 1913 by Dr. Solomon Schechter.

While the theme of the conference was "Choices and Challenges- Living as a Jewish Teen Today", the purpose of USY over its 50 year history has always been to provide a positive forum for social, educational and religious programming for the Jewish teenager.

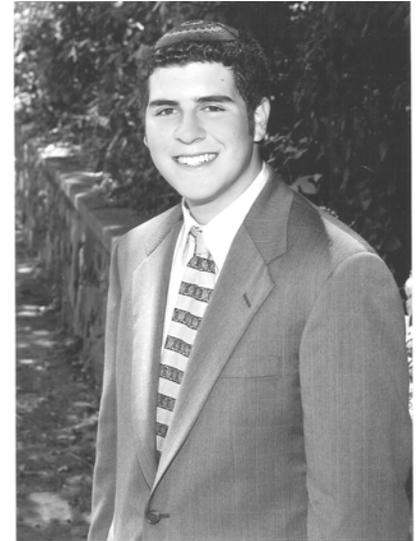

Jesse, who is 17, is a senior at the Solomon Schechter High School in West Orange where he is not only Secretary of the Student Council, but also serves as head of the Religious Life Committee and a member of the National Honor Society. He is also president of the USY Hagalil Region of New Jersey.

At B'nai Tikvah, Jesse has served as president of the North/South Brunswick USY for the 2000/2001 year as well as the Youth Group representative on many synagogue committees.

One of the things that has impressed me the most about Jesse is his outlook on the world around him which is something that most people do not appreciate until they are well past their teens which is his advice to others. "Life moves pretty fast. If you don't stop to look around once in a while, you might miss it."

Please join me in congratulating Jesse as he takes on this leadership role and represents our Congregation not only within our community but also with the Jewish community throughout all of North America !!!
