Kol HaKavod....

This month's Kol Hakavod goes to Marty Abschutz. We thank Marty for the many years that he organized the outside ushers - the men and women who greet you when you come into the building for the High Holidays. It may seem like an easy task, but weeks before the holidays, Marty recruited and scheduled people making sure that the lobby would be staffed so all members and guests would feel welcome upon entering our shul. He has graciously passed this role to Linda Fellen. Marty will continue his work as chair of the budget committee, also one that he's been doing for many years. Marty works months in advance making sure that the committee is able to do its work so that we have a reasonable and responsible budget. However, more important than the process, is Marty's calm and engaging demeanor that helps all of us get our work done. Thank you Marty for all of your dedication!

L'Shanah Tovah!

WORDS OF THE RABBI Rabbi Robert Wolkoff

The Rules

There is a well-known sign that can be found in many offices. It reads something like this:

Rule #1: The boss is always right.

Rule #2: When the boss is wrong, refer to Rule #1.

This is the stuff that the comic strip Dilbert thrives on: unrestrained ego, job tyranny, hierarchy, orders.

There is another sign, much less well known but infinitely more palatable. It was seen on the desk of the CEO of a shoe company. It read:

G-d first. Shoes second.

The ability to put G-d first is truly a gift, a gift that we give not only to others, but also to ourselves. Recognizing that an inflated ego is not a sign of power or status, but rather of weakness and pretension, is a blessing in every way. At the very least, such recognition would keep us from sounding silly.

This is illustrated by a story told of the famous socialite Dorothy Parker. She once found herself at a cocktail party at which someone praised another prominent woman by saying, "She's very kind to her inferiors."

Dorothy Parker responded, as only she could, "And where does she find them?"

How much healthier it would be if we could only put G-d first and everything else—including ourselves—second! If only we could learn to act consistently with derech erez, with basic decency! If only we could see in each person a little bit of the divine, rather than a mere object, and "inferior," on which we can impose our will!

In its most radical form, pretensions of superiority can lead to murder. 9/11 is a perfect illustration of this. On a smaller scale, though, we can see the impact of these pretensions in our day-to-day interpersonal relations.

All of us, at one time or another, take upon ourselves the role of guardian of some high moral principle. We may indeed be right. We may indeed be sincere. But that's not enough to keep our egos in check. Sometimes we espouse our principles at the sacrifice of the personal integrity of the persons to whom we are speaking—or, more accurately, pontificating.

The application of morals and standards is important, to be sure. Especially at this time of year, we should be thinking of such things. This application, however, must take into account the personal integrity of the people with whom we are dealing. Putting high-minded principles ahead of flesh-and-blood people is usually getting things exactly wrong.

There are of course some exceptions. It's all right if you step on a person's foot, or feelings, when you are trying to save a life. We can always go back and apologize to the old lady that we pushed out of the way in order to save a baby from traffic. Usually though, what's really happening is much less noble, just a variant on good ole' Rule 1: The boss is always right...and when we say "the boss," we don't mean G-d.

Let us keep in mind that the purpose of our principles—and the principles of Judaism as a whole—is to help build a just and holy society. Societies aren't possible unless people are willing to stick together. Walking off in a huff of righteous indignation, or inducing others to do so, just doesn't add much derech erez to our lives. And, as we prepare to start the new year, derech erez is at a premium.

This message can be boiled down to three simple Yiddish words, perhaps the most important three words any of us will ever hear: zei a mensch.

Wishing you a sweet, wonderful, happy new year on behalf of Ruth-Ann, Ethan, Joseph, Dahlia Orli, and myself,

Rabbi Robert L. Wolkoff

OUR HAZZAN'S VOICE Cantor Bruce Rockman

To Name a Few

Let's Fix the World, Together... Just Like Aaron, Jerry, Ruth Ann, Jeff, Marci, Gary, Marty, Cindy & Danny... and David, Allison, Neal, Sam, Marla, Ben & Phil too!

I could have chosen a hundred more names to thank, you are our leaders and we are inspired by your gift of selfless giving to our community.

A year ago I was asked why we don't move "Rejoice" to another town. I explained simply that this festival was the fulfillment of a dream, the dream of an 87 (now 88) year old dreamer, an insightful person who saw the need to shine a light on his hometown. Forever civically minded, B'nai Tikvah's Aaron Rosloff, knows that we live in a wonderful community. He chose to express his pride of his diverse community by celebrating the Jewish part of his life. Why not move the event to a more Jewish area? Are we not worthy of such an experience?

The reality is we live in a diverse area. This festival and the events at BT offer us an opportunity to express our Jewish pride right here, where as a minority, our Jewish identity needs encouragement. Yes, this is a good place for Jewish children to grow and emulate role models, like Aaron Rosloff, et al.

If any of you have ever volunteered to chair a major program at the synagogue you know that it is a monumental undertaking. You receive appreciation, but you as a volunteer, may say to yourself, I don't think I can do this again! Hopefully and thankfully your event goes off without a hitch (wink, wink), you are a hero, but you just don't know if you can repeat your effort. Unlike a professional endeavor, you have a choice whether to continue working for our cause or passing the event on to a new team. But that is not what we do.

All of you who so faithfully carry the burden of our community deserve a debt of gratitude, but none of you work so hard for recognition. Yours and that of so many is so heartfelt. You are constantly overwhelmed with the extra load of your synagogue commitments while supporting your families.

Jewish people believe in learning, we value knowledge and we can learn from experience. As a Jewish institution we dedicate ourselves to learning so that we can take action, we strive to repair the world through our acts of kindness. God has chosen us to work harder, to be more considerate and to be a light, an example, among nations.

We teach our children these values so that they can inherit a better world and we educate them to respect their teachers and role models so that they as our legacy will help transform our world for generation's to come.

We are blessed to have such role models amongst us, who do mitzvot in the rhythm of their lives. As you know, Aaron Rosloff is such a person who teaches us through his actions, everyday. Aaron really gets it. Now 2 Rejoice Festivals are in the book. We are supremely thankful for his vision and determination to make this festival take place. Can an event like this inspire our children's connection to their community, their synagogue, where they are taught to become menches? I am certain that such events can.

You can speak to Aaron and if you listen to his answers, you will learn. If you observe him, look up his record you will also learn and prosper. If you follow and live by his humble example, by doing mitzvot, then, you too get it! Aaron looks forward, learns from the past and continues to study to improve.

Aaron was inspired to create The Rejoice Festival after experiencing a similar event with friends in northern New York. He learned that he could share the joy he observed with his friends here. Additionally he felt that B'nai Tikvah exemplifies a sharing community whose vision and example is worthy to share with other local Jewish and secular communities.

Thank you Aaron, for teaching us through your leadership and insight, you are a treasure. I thank God that your knowledge, kindness and your generosity of spirit have profoundly impacted my life and lives of my family.

There are many people at B'nai Tikvah, who think like Aaron and contribute from their hearts and their souls. One and all please embrace the challenges of our shul and look to the examples of these people to make ours a better world. Look around you may know one; we can all learn to fix our world. This is a great place to live!

Yes, I have similarly expressed many of these same thoughts before. We need to continue to focus on these values and their implementation, because this is our mission and this is how B'nai Tikvah expresses its Jewish principles.

Worship the Lord with Gladness and Joy,

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT Aaron Rosloff

Let's Go Sailing!

In August 2009 I flew to a town in Northern Indiana, near the shores of Lake Michigan, to spend a few days with my niece Robin and her husband David. David is a rabid sailor and if life permitted would sail every day of the year.

David and Robin own a 36 foot Catalina sailboat. (I don't know if Catalina is the model or the maker). The boat was outfitted very much like a mobile home, with a kitchen sink, running water, stove, refrigerator and toilet (for reasons no one has explained to me, they call the toilet by the naval term, the head), and with space to sleep and sit in comfort. It was not hard to see why many people live on their boats year round – with winters in Florida. I was invited to spend a few days sailing with them on Lake Michigan and jumped at the chance. The day after I arrived, we headed out to the marina, and I was introduced to some of the nearby boat owners.

I found it interesting that over the three days that I spent with them, many of the boat owners did not sail much. They just sat around on the deck talking, drinking and socializing. I got the feeling, that for many of these people owning a boat was just a way of belonging to a certain social element. Sailing was secondary.

The day that was to be the first of the three days of sailing included a race around a course marked by floating buoys and estimated to take about 3 hours. Normally when David and Robin sailed, Robin would take the helm and David would handle the lines and sails. On this race day, a friend of theirs, an experienced sailor, handled the helm instead of Robin, and Robin and I just scrambled to stay out of the way without falling overboard.

You know the old saw about “the best laid plans of mice and men”. Well shortly after we set sail, it turned from racing to surviving. The winds were blowing at over twenty knots (about 23 miles per hour) and the waves were 4 to 5 feet high. As explained to me, fresh water lakes behave differently than salt water seas. It seems that fresh water is lighter than salt, and is choppy under high winds. I won't argue that point. All I know is that after an hour or so I gave back my lunch and then so did Robin. I had to admire David's seamanship as he scrambled around the boat while we tacked and beat back and forth against the shifting winds, bouncing like a cork in the bathtub.

After about an hour and a half into this “pleasure” cruise, the wind and waves were so strong that I lost track of where we were. But at either the second or third mark as we were approaching it, about 3 or 4 hundred yards behind us were two smaller boats. We held our breath as the two boats collided. Our first intent was to try to go to their aid but fortunately the damage was only superficial and we had our hands full anyway in trying to keep control of our boat. The tension was increased when we saw the same boats collide again as they struggled to get around that mark and again there was no major damage but at this point we decided that caution was the wisest choice and turned toward home. We were then at the furthest point of the race and had to fight up wind all the way home. I had seen some of the finest boat handling that I had ever seen, but my afternoon cruise became an adventure that will give me something to talk about when next I go sailing with my friend Bill Greenberg in the bay off New Jersey.

Avast ye lubbers.

Aaron Rosloff

From The Webmaster

We're Watching You Not Watching Us.

Last month we instituted a whole new way of sending out the weekend announcements. I've been posting them for almost ten years through YahooGroups with the attitude: "If it ain't broke, don't fix it".

Unfortunately, unbeknownst to me, it really was broke and in dire need of repair. Only after converting to Constant Contact, where they provide real-time statistics, did I realize that less than half of our 430 recipients actually open the email and only 20% of those, click thru to our website for more detailed information.

Now I suspect that only those few are actually reading this article. So, what can or should we do to better inform our membership of all we have to offer?

Marketing – Hard At Work!

One of the most difficult – and most important – jobs of Membership is to figure out how best to spread the word about our award-winning programs and services. Our Marketing subcommittee, now chaired by Marla Cukor (mcukor123@aol.com), has been working tirelessly to do just that. In addition to sprucing up our synagogue website and weekly emails, we are trying hard to improve the way we announce activities, and coordinate the myriad of special events going on year-round.

We are looking at new and improved ways to “brand” our synagogue, including a social networking page, updated membership materials, better signage, and so much more.

As always, the marketing committee is open to anyone and everyone who would like to share their ideas, insights and talents. Feel free to contact Marla or me if you would like to get involved.

Look forward to hearing from you!

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL REPORTS Ann Kanarek, Director

SIMCHAT TORAH

The Hebrew word Simcha means "joy." We use it throughout the Jewish life cycle— at a Brit, Baby Naming, Bar or Bat Mitzvah, Confirmation, Wedding. The holiday reminds us that study is a privilege and a joy.

Simchat Torah is a relatively modern Jewish holiday. The yearly cycle of Torah reading was adopted in about the 9th century. Simchat Torah marks both an end and a beginning. During services, we finish reading from the last chapter of Deuteronomy and then immediately begin Genesis. After the Torah is read, we march in Hakafot around the Sanctuary.

Simchat Torah renews our connection to an ancient story that unrolls before us again and again, challenging us to live our lives with honor, acts of nobility, and shared concern for every human being.

Join us as we celebrate together as a congregation the joys of this holiday on Sunday, October 11.

With very best wishes from my family to yours, for a healthy, happy and sweet New Year.

L'Shanah Tovah Tikateyvu,

late stay teacher

School has been going great. Adjustments to separation from parents have been made.

The sounds of the shofar could be heard in the hallways of our school last month. Cantor Rockman blew the shofar for our school. He stood in the hallway and blew the shofar for all the students at once. The children learned that that the sound was calling us to get together to remind us of Rosh Hashannah, to try to be nice to each other and to say we are sorry.

Aromas of apple cakes and muffins made with honey filled the air. Apples were dipped in honey. New Year's cards were produced and good wishes for a Happy New Year were abound.

Our 3's and Pre-k's went by bus to Giamarese Farm in East Brunswick. There, they went on a hayride and picked apples for the New Year.

This month, all classes will learn about the holiday of Sukkot. Decorations for the shul sukkah and their own family sukkahs will be created and the brachot (blessings) on the lulav and etrog will be made. We hope to have snack in the sukkah whenever the weather permits. Flags and Torahs will be designed for Simchat Torah. The children will march with them up and down the halls!

Yoga with Miss Jul and soccer with Coach Spencer or Coach Eddie will alternate every week.

Our Music Together class is on Mondays from 9:15-10:00 AM and our new afternoon class at 12:00 on Wednesdays is being offered this year.

The week of October 19th we read Parshat Noach. We will be learning about Noah and the ark and will be visited by a petting zoo. There will also be pony rides for the children!

Our first fundraiser for this year was the Rosh Hashannah challah sale. Thank you for all those who participated. We hope all of you who ordered the round challahs enjoyed them.

We are fundraising in order to purchase particular items this year including a bench for our playground. The old one was discarded because it was rusted and broken.

We have started our Kidstuff coupon book sale. They are similar to the Entertainment books but these relate to children. They make a great gift. The cost is $25.00 per book and are available in the school office. The Nursery school sells challahs all year round as a fundraiser. Challahs are delivered to the shul on Fridays. If you are interested in ordering, please contact the school office.

Our upcoming fundraisers include Innisbrook sales (wrapping paper and candy).

Please join us at our annual:

Barnes and Noble Bookfair
taking place on Sunday October 25th from 12:30 until 2:30PM.

Purchase any items that day and a small percentage goes to our school. Coupons will soon be available for downloading from the shul's and school's websites. The schedule is as follows:

12:30 PM -1:00 PM, Rabbi Wolkoff and Bnai Tikvah Sisterhood

1:00 PM-1:30 PM, Michelle Cameron, author of The Fruit of Her Hands sponsored by Bnai Tikvah Sisterhood and Hadassah

1:30 PM-2:00 PM, "Make your own JCC bookmark", followed by the 3 year old and Pre-K classes of our school performing a selection of songs

2:00 PM-2:30 PM, a visit by Peter Rabbit

On Tuesday October 27th we will be going on a trip to the State Theatre in New Brunswick to see "Harold and the Purple Crayon".

Until next month..

Phyllis

SOCIAL ACTION UPDATE

Twenty needy students will begin the school year with new book bags filled with school supplies. Thanks to Andrea Katz, these book bags filled with supplies were bought, packed and delivered prior to the beginning of the school year.

This book bag program is an example of how donations to the social action fund are used. Thanks to all those who continually support this fund.

For the 2008-2009 year, B'nai Tikvah has donated 20 cell phones and chargers to Woman Aware, a battered women's shelter.

Thanks again to Andrea Katz for delivering these phones to the shelter throughout the year. This program is on-going. If you have an old cell phone, battery and charger you no longer are using, please drop it off at the synagogue office.

IT'S ALREADY THAT TIME . . . HELP A NEEDY FAMILY FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Why we run this program?

The following is an excerpt of one of the thank you notes we received on behalf of a family we sponsored last year:

“This is a letter of heart felt appreciation on behalf of ----Family for all of your generous gifts this holiday season. The mother burst into tears when we delivered your gifts. She was overwhelmed with positive emotions about the kindness of people who do not know her family. She referred to all of you as angels sent by God to help others on this earth. Her family is very grateful for all of the gifts especially for the winter clothes. Her husband has been wearing his winter boots and coat daily. She is enjoying cooking in her pots. She only had one pot and it would take her a long time to cook because she would have to cook part of a meal, wash the pot, then cook the rest of the meal. The children love their toys. Thank you for bringing joy and comfort to this family.

Another Thank you note: “This family has never experienced such great generosity. The mother told me she was happy to see that her children finally have toys to play with so they are no longer bored at home. The teachers were commenting that they noticed the children’s self esteem improve when they came to school proudly dressed in their new clothes. The children are now appropriately dressed for the weather and are even wearing socks which were noticeably missing prior to receiving the gifts. They sleep much more comfortably at night with their new blankets and their heater.....” This is why we run this program...to make a difference in peoples’ lives.

Who are these families? These families are all in need. They are referred by various sources including Jewish Family Services, local welfare directors, school social workers and senior centers.

How does this program work? Each family will fill out a wish list of their needs. The wish lists typically include items like towels, sheets, blankets, clothing, shoes, coats and children’s toys.

How can you help?

1. Become a family coordinator for one family’s wish list. This might involve getting your family, friends, co-workers, and merchants to donate the needed items to fulfill the family’s wish list.
2. Volunteer to obtain one or more of the items on a family’s wish list.
3. Donate money that will be specifically used to purchase items on a family’s wish list. Checks should be made payable to Congregation B’nai Tikvah Holiday Program.

To participate in this worthwhile program, send in the tear-off below, fill out the form at Bnaitikvah.org, or e-mail Janice Baer at Jbbd11@comcast.net or call Janice at 732-940-0268

SUPERMARKET GIFT CARDS

The "Fall" of Summer

Yes, summer 2009 has "fallen" and with it the temperatures, too. For many including myself, we retreat to the warmth of doing indoor activities to keep occupied. For instance, there's more television to watch; including the new TV season, the World Series, college/professional football games, as well as those old standbys of HGTV and the Food Network. Other indoor activities may include cleaning house, scrapbooking, cooking, etc. For the stalwart warm blooded there still are choices that keep them outside. They can attend sporting functions and be "up close and personal" with other cool weather enthusiasts. Or this a great time to take a bike ride to see the leaves changing colors on trees or pick apples or take high school students to visit college campuses and/or packing cars for the "snow bird" season.

Whatever your preference (or you could enjoy both indoor and outdoor activities) there is one commonality. You need to eat, don't you? Ok, perfect. For that you might shop at A&P, Acme, Pathmark, Shop Rite, Stop & Shop, Whole Foods or Lox, Stock & Deli (LS&D) to buy your food and food related items. Once again, perfect. When you prepare your next shopping list, make a conscious decision to purchase Supermarket Gift Cards (SGCs) to cover your bill. Now that each Congregation B'nai Tikvah (CBT) member unit has been assessed an annual amount of SGCs to purchase, you can fulfill that obligation very simply. Rather than cutting a check to "cash/opt out," cut that same check for SGCs. The SGC committee's unofficial motto has always been: YOU GOTTA EAT ANYWAY! So why not just buy the cards? In the end you are still supporting an on-going CBT fundraiser.

You can purchase SGCs in any of the following ways:

- visit the SGC committee table during Sunday religious school hours;
- stop by the CBT office during regular business hours;
- purchase them on-line at bnaitikvah.org (an order form is available);
- contact one of the following committee members who will be happy to service your order:

Rachel Ruchlin	732-329-2189
Bobby Bergman	732-246-7285
Ann Rosenzweig	732-249-9141
Sylvia Lewis	609-409-0299
Joyce Fishelberg	609-655-3803

Remember that we also offer FREE DELIVERY. Just contact one of the above listed committee members to make arrangements.

THIS MONTH'S TIP: Baby, it's getting cold outside! The following items may warm you up, so add them to your shopping lists:

- hot chocolate
- tea (many tasty flavors)
- crackers
- marshmallows
- soup
- popcorn

The following items are also good to have if you are attending an outdoor sporting/similar event, especially if you are tailgating:

- paper plates and cups
- cooking utensils
- napkins
- towelettes
- FOOD & DRINKS
- plastic cutlery
- foil/plastic wrap
- plastic garbage bags
- charcoal (if grilling)

If I'd forgotten anything, then that means you remembered! Good for you.

Until November - have a happy October!
