From Rabbi Robert L. Wolkoff

What it means to be “chosen”

In recent weeks, there has been a spate of articles about Haredim, otherwise known as “black-hat orthodox” or “ultra-orthodox” Jews. The basic theme of these articles has been a kind of deer-in-the-headlights befuddlement about why people seem to have very unpleasant things to say about them.

- “Why does no one care about violence against Orthodox Jews?” reads one title from the Forward, an assertion which, of course, is false (I care very much when any Jew is attacked) but remarkable in its naïveté. It’s hard to go to bat for people who in other contexts would spit in your face.
- “Israel is no Violent Theocracy,” writes Avi Shafran, a leading apologist for Haredim, as he tries to explain why a nearly endless list of ugly comments and actions by Orthodox Jews in Israel doesn’t really constitute “animus” against non-Orthodox Jews. What exactly it does constitute remains a mystery.
- A huge kerfuffle has arisen about an ugly video, put out by Rockland County Republicans, claiming that Hasidic Jews were plotting an invasion that would threaten “our” (that is to say, the non-Hasidic) way of life. The video was, with good reason, roundly condemned as anti-Semitic, and ultimately taken down. But as one official stated, “While the content of the video is factual, the tone and undercurrent is unacceptable.” So let’s stick with the factual for a second. Anyone who thinks that a large influx of Hasidic Jews will not mean a) the destruction of the local public school system; and b) massive overbuilding, is out of their mind (or at least, hasn’t visited Lakewood). We aren’t talking speculation here. We’re talking on-the-ground facts, if anyone would care to be honest enough to look at them.
- And finally, I point out that in the recent Israeli elections, the corrupt and coercive influence of the Haredi parties has been the hot button issue.

And Haredi Jews wonder why the rest of us are not precisely enamored of the contempt, denigration, and disrespect directed our way by self-proclaimed “Torah true” Jews? Go figure. How do we explain all of this?

On my recent trip to Israel with Ruth-Ann and Dahlia, we got an answer. A taxi driver—as usual, purveyors of the best folk wisdom—noticed a Haredi Jew wearing his traditional uniform—fur hat, long black coat, long payos, perfectly appropriate under the blazing 100 degree Jerusalem sun. The driver, a Syrian Jew, announced with great fanfare, “Look, one of the choysen.” From that moment on, we could not help but think of “the choysen” every time we saw ultra-Orthodox Jews. Dahlia said she wanted a t-shirt with the words: “Chosen, not choysen”. And Ruth-Ann was able to clarify: “Chosen’ is a responsibility. ‘Choysen’ is an attitude.”

A bad attitude, one which smacks of arrogance and conceit, not to mention willful blindness. The same Avi Shafran who could write such conciliatory sounding words as “we Orthodox Jews need to understand why fellow Jews are so hurt by” the coercive Orthodox monopoly in Israel, is just as comfortable making the outrageous and insulting claim that “a combination of optimism and ignorance led well-intentioned Jews to believe [incorrectly] that the Conservative movement truly respected our mesorah [our tradition].”

Such denigration is certainly inappropriate for this High Holy Day season of introspection and self examination, but in fact it is inappropriate all the time. “Ahavat Israel,” “love for the people of Israel” demands humility, empathy, and mutual understanding, not self-righteous preening. It’s what you do when you are “chosen”, not “choysen.”

Rabbi Robert L. Wolkoff

From the Desk of Cantor Rockman

There's a Time and Place

For a long time, 19 years, you have allowed me to stand before G-d as your shaliach, your messenger. You have trusted me with the sacred responsibility to petition G-d on your behalf, to listen, to hear and to answer “your” prayers. I am awed and so grateful for your trust. I am overwhelmed with gratitude, thank you.

My simple prayer is that G-d will grant us the strength and inspiration to be worthy of our requests and with G-d's help, we will be guided to fulfill our purpose and responsibility as a Jewish community.

We are not naïve; we know that the cantor's petitions are but the beginning of our process. As we pray and reflect, we should each search for meaningfulness. Increasing our Jewish knowledge is a great initiative to consider.

“I've come around and now understand that the Torah is filled with revolutionary ideas, deep insights into the human condition, and profound moral wisdom. But getting there was a process-one I went through with many aspects of Judaism I encountered-from skepticism to disdain, to gradual comprehension and grudging appreciation to outright appreciation and, often, something the feels like love.” -Sara Hurwitz from her new book “Here All Along”.

With this statement... Sara Hurwitz expresses the comfort and passion she discovered in her own tradition, our ever nurturing Jewish faith. Sarah's journey is filled with the self reflection that led her to an understanding her responsibility beyond her original perceptions of Judaism that continues to impede our spiritual growth.

My search and my struggle are to articulate and inspire others toward a loving expression of what it means to be Jewish. How will I/we inspire our children to feel passionately about Judaism if we ourselves have difficulty communicating our passion?

As Rabbi Jonathan Sacks states in a hypothetical scenario, “...you are free to choose to embrace any tradition and lifestyle. You are standing in a library filled with books for every tradition and then you come across one a book with your family's name printed on the spine. You open the book, it is the story that each generation of your ancestors has told for the sake of the next, so that everyone born into this family can learn where they came from, what happened to them, what they lived for and why. As you turn the pages, you reach the last, which carries no entry. It bears you name”.

Judaism is not just a religion; it is a story of a large, blended, diverse family. Judaism is reserved for all individuals who are born or choose to be Jewish. We can each add our personal journey to our family's tome.

As important as our intellectual journey is, it is ironic that I become sad when the emotional connection to our deeds is missing. More than Anything, Judaism is a joyful tradition.

Worship the Lord with Joy, Gladness, Singing and Dancing, Wishing you a healthy, meaningful and fulfilling, Happy New Year,

Cantor Bruce Rockman

From our President Marty Abschutz

With summer in the rear-view mirror and the High Holy Days upon us, many of us turn our thoughts to reflection and the coming year. It also can be a time of renewal, seeing family and friends that we don't get to see as often as we'd like. Consider taking the time to cherish these times, since we don't know what the next moment, hour, day, week, etc., will bring.

For Marci and me this has special meaning since it's the first time that our daughter Caren is not within driving distance at this time of year. By the time you read this, we should have returned from visiting Colchester, England, where Caren and her family reside. I appreciate more those times she was just an hour drive away or when Elyse was a much shorter plane distance away. Yes, there is FaceTime, WhatsApp, Skype, etc., yet it's not the same as being there. That's all my long-winded way of saying, again: cherish these times.

Looking forward, we have several fun things planned for this "synagogue year." "Murder Marinara (A Murder Mystery Event)" will take place on Saturday, October 26, 2019. Desserts. Drinks. Death. Audience participation is welcome, while witnesses are needed! Visit our website and click through on the left side of the page to order your tickets; sponsorships are available, too. Back by popular demand is "Latkes and Vodka," another opportunity to meet your fellow members, while enjoying libations and latkes on Saturday, January 4, 2020. (I wanted to be among the first to write 2020 in something you read ;-))

Now that Rabbi Wolkoff has returned from his Sabbatical, consider joining him, for his Wednesday, "Lunch and Learn," at noon. This year's topic is everything you want to know about Deuteronomy and didn't have time to ask. Classical Caterers prepares lunch at noon; class begins at 12:45. Cantor Rockman has begun his second year as our Education Director. He has some great educational opportunities planned for our youth.

You'll all be pleased to know that the U.S. Department of Homeland Security has reimbursed us for the first completed project under the grant we were awarded. Look for large bollards being placed in the drive, in front of our main entrance, as the second security item. Special thanks to all involved in dotting the Is and crossing the Ts to make this happen.

If you've had the opportunity to pray in our Beit Midrash, you've seen the amazing transformation of that space, due to generous donations to Shomrei Tikvah. This complete renovation would not have been possible without you supporting it.

Finally, I want to wish everyone a happy, healthy, and sweet new year, again. Congregation B'nai Tikvah is not possible without you and any time you can give to making things happen from daily minyan to our biggest fundraising events. Thank you!

Please contact me with ANY questions, suggestions and comments at president@bnaitikvah.org.

SOCIAL ACTION

IT'S ALREADY THAT TIME.... HELP A NEEDY FAMILY FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Why we run this program? The following is an excerpt of one of the thank you notes we received on behalf of a family we sponsored: "This family has never experienced such generosity. They felt overjoyed and emotional upon receiving the gifts. The mother told me she was happy to see that her children finally have toys to play with so they are no longer bored at home. The teachers were commenting that they noticed the children's self esteem improve when they came to school proudly dressed in their new clothes. The children are now appropriately dressed for the weather and are even wearing socks which were noticeably missing prior to receiving the gifts. They sleep much more comfortably at night with their new blankets and their heater...." This is why we run this program...to make a difference in peoples' lives.

Who are these families? These families are all in need. They are referred by various sources including Jewish Family Services and school social workers.

How does this program work? Each family will fill out a wish list of their needs. The wish lists typically include items like towels, sheets, blankets, clothing, shoes, coats and children's toys.

How can you help?

1. Become a family coordinator for one family's wish list. This might involve getting your family, friends, co-workers, and merchants to donate the needed items to fulfill the family's wish list.
2. Volunteer to obtain one or more of the items on a family's wish list.
3. Donate money that will be specifically used to purchase items on a family's wish list. Checks should be made payable to Congregation B'nai Tikvah Holiday Program.

To participate in this worthwhile program, send in the below form to the synagogue office or e-mail Janice Baer at Jbbd11@verizon.net. Please denote in what capacity you want to participate.

PLEASE RESPOND BY NOVEMBER 18th
