

Memorial Booklet Yizkor 5785 2024-2025

There is something comforting about a memorial book. Inside, we find the names of our loved ones who have gone the way of all the earth—their names, and the names of the people who love, respect, and above all, remember them. We look around the room before yizkor, and we see an entire congregation, our sacred community, joining together with common purpose. It is true that every grief is unique, because every relationship is unique. But to know that we all mourn together is a comfort unto itself.

How different, though, is our calm and measured sorrow at yizkor from the tragic, and sometimes horrific, circumstances that led to the death of our loved ones. For years to come, we will be haunted by images of October 7, the great pogrom of the modern era from which our community is still reeling. Young people fleeing in terror from the Nova dance festival—“you have changed my dancing into mourning,” a reversal of the praise we recite in our daily prayers (Psalm 30). Bloody sheets where the lives of infants were ended before they could begin. Burned out cars and homes where our brothers and sisters suffered their last moments in agony.

They must never be forgotten, but we cannot bear to relive the full measure of pain their death entailed. So we include our loving thoughts of them in this memorial book, where they, like all our loved ones, are “gathered unto their ancestors.” There is no more pain for them, no more terror, no more sorrow. Their souls, wrenched so brutally from their broken bodies, are now bound up in the bond of life together with all those we mourn. May their memories, and the memories of all who are embraced in this book, be a blessing and an inspiration for us.

Oh G-d, what are mortals that you care about them?

What are human beings, that you even think of them?

We are like a breath, our days a fleeting shadow.

We are like new sprouts of grass. In the morning it grows, in the evening it is cut down and withers.

So teach us to number our days, that we may get us a heart of wisdom.

For life has meaning, life has plan and purpose. We were not created but to perish.

In the end, the dust returns to the earth as it was, but the spirit returns unto G-d who gave it.

Until then, we proclaim before you, living and everlasting King, that every day with mercy you return our souls to us.

How great is your faithfulness to us!

From you we learn love and faith, righteousness and sacred striving.

Those who came before us learned these things, and they have left their imprints on the hearts of their loved ones.

May we do the same, for those who come after us.

In this life, may we seek to place G-d before us always.

We will never stumble if we sense G-d's presence.

We can live with joy, body and soul can rejoice.

We understand that there can be no love without loss, no joy with out sorrow

May we have the courage to accept the whole of life—the love and the loss—the joy and the sorrow.

So that we may honor the memory of those who came before by each pledging:

In spite of my mortality, I will not fear death more than I celebrate life.

The mysteries of life and death are many:

The suffering of the innocent, the curse of dementia.

The pathetic frailty of the elderly, the tragedy of young lives cut short.

All rivers run to the sea, but the sea is never full.

We cannot fathom Your mysteries. Our lives and our wisdom are as nothing.

As a drop of water in the sea, as a grain of sand on the shore are our few days in eternity.

But could it be that You have brought us into life so that, in spite of our few years, and in spite of all that remains mysterious to us, we might have made the world a better place?

Looking into the darkness, contemplating the mysteries of existence, we can perceive the special mystery that has Sustained us through the generations:

Each one of us will die. But the people of Israel will never die.

And knowing this we can say, with complete faith: The Lord is My light and my help. Whom shall I fear?

*Oh G-d, what are mortals that you care about them?
What are human beings? That you even think of them?*

And yet, you have made us just short of angels and crowned us with honor and elegance.

We Remember
The Righteous of the World
victims of Man's inhumanity
to man.
May our remembrance stir us to build a just and peaceful world.

IN MEMORIAM

In this memorial hour we recall those of our relatives who have been taken from us. Though they are no longer with us, we are sustained and comforted by the thought that the goodness which they brought into our lives remains an enduring blessing which we can bequeath to our descendents. Their memories are enshrined in our sanctuary, and are gratefully recorded on the tablets of our hearts.

May the Source of all comfort send consolation and healing to us and all others who mourn them.

May their memories endure as a lasting blessing in our midst.

She is free. Free from the body
And free from the soul and from the blood that is the soul,
Free from wishes and from sudden fear
And from fear for me, free from honor and from shame
Free from hope and from despair and from fire
and from water,
Free from the color of her eyes and from the color of her hair,
Free from furniture and free from knife spoon fork,
Free from the heavenly Jerusalem and from the earthly Jerusalem,
Free from identity and from identity documents,
Free from round seals
And from square seals,
Free from photos and free from clips,
She is free.

And all the letters and all the numbers
That arranged her life are free too
For new combinations and new destinies and new games
Of all the generations that will come after her.

Yehuda Amichai

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.

God gives me repose in green meadows.

God leads me beside the still waters to revive my spirit.

God guides me on the right path, for that is His nature.

Though I walk in the valley of the shadow of death,
I fear no harm, for You are with me.

Your staff and Your rod comfort me.

You prepare a banquet for me in the presence of my enemies.

You anoint my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and kindness shall be my portion
All the days of my life.

And I shall dwell in the House of the Lord forever.
